

ALL DRIVERS IN CITY MAY QUIT.

Sixteen Thousand of Them Threaten to Strike Out of Sympathy for Men Who Are Looked Out by Lumbermen.

TIE - UP SEEMS HOPELESS.

Settlement of the Big Strike Involving Many Buildings and Millions of Dollars Still Far Off—Team Drivers Won't Leave Board.

The International Team Drivers' Union has taken a hand in the material drivers' strike and a complete tie-up of the transportation of the city is threatened. There are 16,000 members of the International Team Drivers' Union in the borough of Manhattan. They embrace drivers of milk wagons, trucks, mail wagons, cabs and wheeled vehicles generally, and also the drivers of automobiles.

These men can be ordered out in sympathy with the locked-out material drivers. The men who are handling the situation for the laborers now feel by reason of the strike will not hesitate to call a general strike of drivers if they think it necessary to their success. It may be stated positively that the Material Drivers' Union will not withdraw from the Board of Building Trades, as that body requested last night. Inasmuch as the conservative element in the board is not strong enough to expel the Team Drivers' Union, the outlook for a settlement is not hopeful.

Teamsters Will Stand Firm.

"Our union will not withdraw," said James Greehan, representing the material drivers in the United Board, today. "It is the fundamental principle of unionism that an injury to one is the concern of all. The business agents who voted for us last night are pledged to our support. The vote as it fell resulted in our favor by 2 to 1. To put us out it would have to be unanimous."

Both sides are making statements about what will happen as a result of the action of the Board. President Davis, of the Lumber Trades Association, says that he is assured that the union represented in the United Board by the delegates who voted in favor of the team drivers will repudiate their representatives. The men are anxious to go to work.

N. W. Evans, President of the International Team Drivers' Union; William Lewis, Vice-President, and Charles Foster, General Organizer, are in the city and have made arrangements to take the material drivers into the national organization. The material drivers have been independent thus far. Alliance with the International Team Drivers' Union will give them alliance with the Central Federated Union and the American Federation of Labor.

Will Join National Body.

The material drivers will be taken into the national organization in a body to-morrow night. Payment of strike benefits will follow immediately. The material drivers feel that with this support and the backing of the team drivers of the city, they cannot help but win.

"We have the dealers on the run," said an officer of the Material Drivers' Union today. "They tried to strike us through the United Board and we fooled them. Now they are talking about opening up the yards with non-union drivers, but they won't. If they open the yards we are strong enough to call every man in them out, and the dealers know it."

President Evans says that the support of the team drivers all over the United States will be extended to the material drivers. New York team drivers, he says, are paid lower wages than prevail in any other large city.

CRAZY HORSE BITES JOCKEY.

Bullman, Crack Rider, Was Rubbing Down His Pet Trotter, When the Beast Turned on Him with Hoofs and Teeth.

BEATEN OFF WITH IRON BAR.

Wild Animal Had Jockey Down and Was Biting and Stamping Him When Help Came—Boy's Injuries Are Serious.

While Jockey Bullman was rubbing down his valuable trotting horse The Raven, at Sheepshead Bay to-day, the animal attacked him with hoofs and teeth and so severely injured him that his life is in danger. Had it not been for Hiram Pierce, who was in the stable and beat the crazy brute with an iron bar, Bullman would have been killed outright.

Bullman was engaged to ride Fantur in the second race, Sunny Shore in the fourth race, Dutiful in the sixth race and John A. Scott in the seventh race at Gravesend this afternoon.

These horses are all the property of his employer, John W. Schorr, the millionaire Memphis horseman. After the race to-day Bullman was to have taken the train for Chicago, where he was engaged to ride McChesney in the Chicago Derby.

Was His Particular Pet.

While other jockeys run to automobiles for pasture Bullman sticks to horses. The animal that tried to kill him to-day was his particular pet. Bullman took care of the horse himself and it was his delight to attend to the horse and other attentions in the barn.

The boy went from his home on Sheepshead Bay road to the track, where the horse was stabled, to-day. Of late The Raven has been fractious and Bullman had difficulty in keeping the animal under control. Long associated with him, the boy made the horse less, however, and he had no hesitancy about entering the stall to-day.

The horse was loose in a stall. Bullman carried his charge and was in the process of rubbing down when The Raven reached around and attempted to nip him.

Bullman jumped back and the horse bit him. The boy was knocked down before he could make a move to protect himself and with teeth and hoofs The Raven was upon him.

A Desperate Struggle.

Hiram Pierce was in the stable. He heard the disturbance in the box stall and hurried to the assistance of Bullman. Knowing the character of the horse and surmising that it had become savage he picked up a heavy iron bar on the way.

Pierce opened the door the horse had Bullman on the floor in a corner and was attempting to stamp his life out. Pierce struck The Raven over the head with the bar, but the infuriated beast paid little attention to the punishment.

Time and again Pierce brought the bar down on the head and body of the horse, but he succeeded in diverting its attention. The Raven left Bullman and started after Pierce, but the iron bar was in continual action and at last was taken from him.

Pierce carried Bullman out of the stall and placed him on a pile of blankets while he summoned assistance from other stables. The boy was carried to his home and physicians were summoned.

Doctors Fear Hydrophobia.

It was found that a big piece had been bitten out of the boy's left side and that the teeth of the horse had lacerated his chest and left about an inch of his ribs broken, and it is feared that he has sustained internal injuries.

The doctors fear that the horse has been bitten by a mad dog. In this event Bullman's injuries are dangerous, as there is danger of hydrophobia, but it is hoped that the animal was suffering merely from a wild and vicious and "savage" attack of temper.

One of the most popular jockeys riding on the Metropolitan tracks, he is a good, honest boy, and is never in the stable when he is not in the saddle. Broadway does not know him. His sole delight is in being around horses. He is a wide-eyed, proud of the animal that turned upon him to-day, and had won some good brush with it on the Coney Island Speedway.

GAS COMPANY FEARS TO FACE FRAUD CASE.

Pays Mrs. Cransdell's Judgment Rather than Undergo Additional Disclosures.

Rather than face a further inquiry into its business methods, which would have resulted if the case had been appealed, the New Amsterdam Gas Company to-day paid in full a judgment obtained against it by Mrs. Walter E. Cransdell for more than $300.

In May, 1912, the Cransdells moved into the house No. 337 East Thirtieth street. A month later they got a bill from the time they had entered the apartment and in addition got one for 70 cents, a balance remaining on the account of the previous tenant. The Cransdells refused to pay for the previous tenant's gas, and after months of bickering the company shut off their supply of gas.

For two months the family had no gas and then Mrs. Cransdell consulted her attorney, Ellis H. Levy. A letter was sent the company stating that if the gas was not turned on at once a suit would be brought. The next day the gas was turned on. Mr. Levy then brought suit for damages, basing the claim on an old decision where the company had been held in a similar case for $5 a day for every day it had refused to supply gas.

The case was tried before Justice Justice. The gas company insisted that the account of the Cransdells never had been closed. In support of this the company introduced its books. In looking over the books the Justice found that an error had been made with acid and ordered the book marked by identification. The judgment against the company was for the amount asked and its attorneys served notice of appeal to-day. The money to satisfy the judgment was paid to Mr. Levy for the clients and the notice of appeal withdrawn.

GRAND JURY TAKES UP MACHEN CASE.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The case of ex-post Machen, of the free-delivery service of the Post-Office Department, who is charged with having received bribes to the amount of $20,000 in connection with department contracts, was presented to the Federal Grand Jury to-day.

Assistant District-Attorney Taggart represented the Government. The first witness was Andrew M. McBeth, a chief of division in the office of the auditor for the Second National Bank of this city, who was examined for several hours. Inspector Mayer, who worked up the case against Machen, followed McBeth.

Another witness who was present to give testimony was Mr. Bekloff, cashier of the Second National Bank, who was examined for several hours. The case against Machen has been surrounded by the witnesses from out of town who were present, acting under instructions, when approved and decided by the grand jury. They were or where they were from, nor would any of the court-house officers in Scotchland follow McBeth.

As a further safeguard all the witnesses were assembled in the District-Attorney's office, where they were usually set apart for that purpose.

MRS. C. A. GREEN FOUND NOT GUILTY.

Jury Acquitted Her On the Indictment for Shooting Joseph King—She Shot in Self-Defense.

Mrs. Caroline A. Green, who was indicted by the Richmond County Grand Jury for assault in the first degree for having shot Joseph King in the house in which they both lived in Stapleton, on May 19, was acquitted to-day by the jury. The jury was composed of Judge Stephen D. Stephens presiding.

In her own behalf Mrs. Green testified that King came into her apartment, tried to force his way into her apartment. She shot him in self-defense. The jury was composed of twenty-five men and one woman, who has four young children.

SECOND DOSE FATAL.

PATERSON, N. J., June 4.—Frederick Pardone, a silk dyer, forty-three years old, committed suicide by taking arsenic at his home on the Bloomfield road. On Monday last Pardone took a quantity of poison, but an emetic was given to him and his life was saved. He said at the time that he was "only fooling."

He had not worked for two weeks and is said to have been drinking. He was a widower. He leaves three children, the oldest a girl of fourteen years. After having taken the poison last night, Pardone burned the box that had contained the drug.

The body of a man found in the Kill von Kull, off New Brighton, is believed to be that of S. J. Mitchell, of Troy, N. Y., who has been missing since last October.

Mrs. S. J. Mitchell called at the office of Coroner Schaefer in Stapleton, N. Y., to-day to see the body, but it had been taken to the County Farm. Mrs. Mitchell said she would go there. She gave a description of her husband which tallied closely with that of the dead man.

He said that her husband had been employed by the National Biscuit Company in New York for twenty-two years. It was his custom to make weekly visits to Troy. After leaving home on Oct. 19 he dropped out of sight.

She says that when he left home he had $100 in cash, a diamond pin, a diamond ring, a diamond in a pocket and a gold watch and chain. Some of these things were found on the body.

Mrs. Mitchell's theory is that some men may have seen him display money and assaulted and robbed him. She thinks that he may have received an injury to his head which deprived him of memory.

The coroner says that the body had been in the water about two weeks. Mitchell was a member of a Grand Army Post and his fellow-members have also been looking for him.

RAN OUT, HER CLOTHING AFIRE

Girl Rushed Into the Street All Affame and Two Men Were Seriously Burned in Extinguishing the Blaze.

Margaret Sullivan, a servant, employed in the home of Louis Mendelson, No. 140 Lenox avenue, was fatally burned to-day. The girl was cleaning a bedstead with turpentine when her clothing caught fire. She ran from the bedroom into the kitchen screaming and making an effort to put out the fire with water from the sink. Blazing from head to foot she then ran down two flights of stairs and into the street.

Across the street at the time was Detective Sergeant Barrett. He ran over and threw his coat about her as she fell to the pavement. Christian Peters, of No. 140 West One Hundred and Nineteenth street, Isaac Meizer, of No. 33 West Eleventh street, and John Young, the janitor of the building, also threw their coats over her. A passing truck furnished a couple of horse blankets and these were thrown about her by Barrett and Peters, both being burned about the face and hands in doing so.

The woman, from whom nearly all the clothes had been burned, was carried to a drug store. From there she was taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital. There it was said her death was only a question of a few hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Mendelson were away from home at the time. A peculiar phase of the accident was that when the fat was entered in the belief that it must be on the ground that nothing had caught from the girl's burning clothes, although there were rags saturated with turpentine and an open bottle of it where she took fire.

"We commend President Roosevelt's fidelity to duty, his adherence to President McKinley's policy, and his own practical ability in his office, showing him in every way worthy of election by the people to be Chief Magistrate. We favor his nomination for President in 1916."

The Ohio Republican delegation in Congress has honored the State in both houses. Senators Joseph B. Foraker and Marcus A. Hanna have splendidly maintained Ohio's leadership.
